How does the weather affect my electric bill?

To portray an accurate picture of how the temperature relates to our comfort level, the National Weather Service uses “degree days” to define the margin between the actual temperature and a baseline of 65, which would be considered comfortable with no heating or cooling devices needed.

Degree days for May:

2010	2011	Normal (base of 65)
262	295	193

This comparison shows that May 2011 had 33 more degree days than May 2010 and 102 more degree days than the National Weather Service defined as “normal” weather conditions.

Power cost adjustment

TEAM UP TO POWER DOWN.

Together We Save.

It's all about teamwork

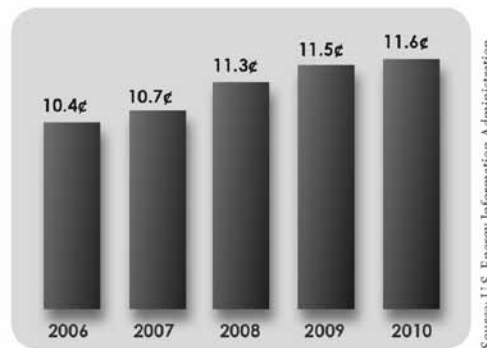

Most of us would agree Clydesdale horses are amazing. Their grace, work ethic and brute strength are inspirational. These beautiful creatures can also teach us a powerful lesson about teamwork. Did you know one Clydesdale horse can pull about 600 pounds? That's a very strong animal by itself. When working together, these horses can pull an astounding 1,700 pounds.

Because Clydesdales work as a team, a pair of them can pull much more than twice as much as each of them can pull individually. We can all learn a lesson from that amazing feat of cooperation, especially in the midst of rising energy costs.

From the escalating price of fuel used to generate electricity, to necessary investments for environmental compliance, costs to generate and deliver power are going up.

The answer is clear. It's up to all of us to change the way we use electricity.

Over the next several months, we're going to be focusing on "Team Up To Power Down." You're going to be hearing a lot about this effort, as we inform you about ways you can use electricity more wisely and how it can benefit you. If you can afford to sit back and watch your power bills go up, then feel free to ignore this information. But if you're looking for ways to hold the line on your power bills, then join this effort.

National Average Residential Retail Rate (per kilowatt hour)

Individually, you'll see your energy use drop on monthly power bills as you make energy-efficiency improvements in your home or business. As a co-op, if we all reduce our energy use, we'll reduce the need for building new power generation facilities.

Rising energy costs are a fact of life. Increasing prices are too big of a load for one person or one organization to carry. Let's all put the bits in our mouths, and pull together to keep electricity affordable. Let's Team Up To Power Down.

MyMeter™ allows REMC members to take charge of energy use

Free online service from Clark County
REMC lets members see daily electricity use and save on their monthly bills

When the REMC announced the installation of smart meters for our members we promised the new meters would allow us to offer more information to our members. We are launching a new service called MYMETER™ that lets us take advantage of this technology. MYMETER™ is a Web-based energy tracking service that will provide members with current energy use information and tools for greater control over their electric bills.

MYMETER™ is a free online service that allows REMC members to view their electricity use in increments as short as one hour. The tool is made possible because of the initial Automated Metering Infrastructure (AMI) installed with the co-op's smart meters and is available through the cooperative's website.

Information on the MYMETER™ screens includes the ability to:

- View your hourly, daily and monthly energy use in an easy to read graphical format.
- Compare energy use fluctuations to changes in temperature.
- Compare your own energy use to the rest of the co-op's membership.
- Set goals for reducing energy use and track the progress.
- Use Energy Markers to indicate an energy saving action and then track any changes in consumption.
- Access tips to help conserve energy.

Clearly, we are facing a situation where energy is only going to get more and more costly and that's what makes MYMETER™ such a valuable tool. It provides our members more control over their energy use and their energy bill.

A key element of the service is our member's ability to place a marker on their daily use graph when an efficiency upgrade such as new appliance or air conditioner is introduced into their home. It is then possible to note any changes in energy use as a result of the new product.

REMC members can register for MYMETER™ online by visiting www.theremc.com and clicking on the MYMETER™ icon. Members will need to have their account number handy for the initial registration.

For those that do not have access to our website, we encourage you to contact Customer Service for more information.

Give your home's energy use a vacation

Going on vacation?

Even if you plan to be away just a few days, you can save energy in your home when you travel. Here's a tip from the REMC that can give your utility bill a break when you take a break.

Water heater. Turn down the temperature, so it doesn't keep the water warm while you are away. Or, talk to an energy expert at the REMC about turning off the water heater.

Thermostat. During hot weather, turn up the thermostat on your air conditioning system. That way, you'll save energy while ensuring that your home doesn't get too warm. If you're away during the winter, lower the temperature on your furnace. The house can be as cool as 50 F without the risk of your pipes freezing.

Refrigerator. Depending on food stored in your fridge, you may be able to turn the thermostat as high as 38 F without risking spoilage. Storing water-filled bottles in your refrigerator can prevent temperature fluctuations, which will save energy. Food in the freezer compartment will stay frozen if the temperature remains at minus 5 F.

Lights. Turn off all lights in your home. You may want to install timers on one or two lights for security.

Electronics. Unless you're recording something while away, unplug all of your electronic devices – computer, monitor and printer, TV and cable boxes, DVD player, microwave, and digital clocks. Any electronics with digital displays, instant-on features, or remote controls will consume energy even if they're not in use.
